Give Hope. Give Life.

When Danielle Murnin was just 18 months old, she was diagnosed with Severe Congenital Neutropenia and began what she thought would be a life-long battle. Without the neutrophils to fight off infections, she endured countless trips to the hospital until her condition got so severe that a Bone Marrow Transplant was her only hope for survival.

Danielle was lucky enough to have a little sister who was a perfect match; after months in the hospital and many checkups, she was officially free from the disease. Danielle was assured that her condition was not hereditary. Fast forward 14 years later Danielle and Anthony Jonasson Jr. were blessed with their son Anthony James III (JJ). JJ at just two days old was diagnosed with neutropenia; now Danielle, Anthony, and JJ face a new battle of their own. In hopes of finding a match, they would like to bring awareness to stem cell and bone marrow donation.

Matches are based on ancestry and DNA. JJ is Latino/Caucasian and only 4% of donors on the national registry are of mixed heritage.

JJ needs your help!

Be A Hero.
